TO THE SUBSCRIBERS AND ADVERTISERS.

The Spectator is published for the Proprietor by J. M. French, at No. 101 North Main Street, Staunton, Va.

Trial of Jeff. Davis.

There have been various and contradictory reports as to whether Mr. Davis would be tried in a civil or military Court, and whether he would be tried on the charge of treason or complicity in the assassination of Mr. Lincoln.

It appears to have been finally decided that Jefferson Davis will receive a full and fair parole, and be furnished a passport to Europe, on giving his trial have all fallen through.

Notwithstanding the particularity of the above dispatch, and its inspiring plausibility, there seems to be but little doubt that Mr. Davis will be tried for treason, and that, too, in a short time.

The National Intelligencer, alluding to the interview, says that President Johnson regretted that public policy prevented his yielding to their persuasions and touching arguments for the immediate pardon of Davis.

He will be tried as the representative of the whole people of the South, with the purpose of establishing that the crime of treason has been committed by the Southern people, as charged by the North.

As soon as the Legislature shall meet a law should be enacted in reference to the contracts for labor which may be entered into between the Freedmen and their employers.

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun states the following gratifying piece of information for the Southern public: It is now pretty clear that the President has at least the admission of the Southern Congressmen, and will make it a measure of his administration.

The Richmond Republic, after describing our present straitened circumstances, says that we should practice the most rigid economy, both as individuals and as communities.

Endowment for Washington College.

The people of Augusta are now called upon, through an agent for the Board of Trustees of Washington College, to assist in increasing the endowment of the college. This call is made necessary by the total loss of its vested funds, and also by damage done to the buildings, books, apparatus and cabinet of minerals of the Institution, by the Federal army in June 1861.

What the country most needs is peace—real peace, a peace which will place us in power and prosperity, where we stood before the late suicidal struggle.

Knowing, as we do, that the intelligent citizens of this county appreciate the importance of having good seminaries of learning, and knowing their characteristic liberality, and high esteem and admiration for the character and accomplishments of Gen. R. E. Lee, we deem an appeal to them wholly unnecessary.

The British Government abolished slavery on the Island of Jamaica, a British Colony, thirty years ago.

He will be tried as the representative of the whole people of the South, with the purpose of establishing that the crime of treason has been committed by the Southern people, as charged by the North.

As soon as the Legislature shall meet a law should be enacted in reference to the contracts for labor which may be entered into between the Freedmen and their employers.

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun states the following gratifying piece of information for the Southern public: It is now pretty clear that the President has at least the admission of the Southern Congressmen, and will make it a measure of his administration.

Spirit of Soldiers North and South.

The New York Times, says the Richmond Republic, considers it as at least worthy of political note that one of its correspondents in the South gives special credit to those who have been openly in arms against the National Government for a frank and candid bearing in their submission which is not apparent in the less manly-disposed portion of its inhabitants.

What the country most needs is peace—real peace, a peace which will place us in power and prosperity, where we stood before the late suicidal struggle.

Knowing, as we do, that the intelligent citizens of this county appreciate the importance of having good seminaries of learning, and knowing their characteristic liberality, and high esteem and admiration for the character and accomplishments of Gen. R. E. Lee, we deem an appeal to them wholly unnecessary.

Northern Election.

The elections in the North which took place last Tuesday have all gone for the Republicans. There were but two States—New York and New Jersey—in which there was any hope of a contrary result.

Government of Southern States.

Though Governors have been elected by the people in some of the States of the South, yet, by orders from Washington, these States are still governed by Provisional Governors appointed by the President, and such will continue to be the case till they perform the following acts:

The Sentinel.

The publication of the morning Commercial Bulletin has been substituted by the Sentinel, under the same management that existed before the suspension of the Sentinel by the capture of Richmond.

States of Gen. Jackson.

Col. S. Bassett French, Secretary and Treasurer of the Jackson Status Association, has addressed a Card to the Executive Committee of that Association, informing them that the States is now ready for the founder, and that Mr. Volk only waits for the funds necessary to carry on the work to completion.

To the Stockholders of the Va. Central Railroad.

OSTENTATIONS—The time is at hand for the annual meeting of our company and the election of officers to serve another year.

No more auspicious time for the manufacture of discontent has ever occurred. A tempest of devastation has passed like a tornado over our own happy land, prostrating, and in many cases, utterly destroying our most interesting institutions—public and private.

What the country most needs is peace—real peace, a peace which will place us in power and prosperity, where we stood before the late suicidal struggle.

Knowing, as we do, that the intelligent citizens of this county appreciate the importance of having good seminaries of learning, and knowing their characteristic liberality, and high esteem and admiration for the character and accomplishments of Gen. R. E. Lee, we deem an appeal to them wholly unnecessary.

Review of the Markets.

We have nothing of importance to chronicle since our last issue, except a steady, except one, which has declined from 1 1/2 to 1 1/4.

WIT AND HUMOR.

Clerical Taste—Church Bells. Quiet, lady-like society—Jumb-bellies. Broughs of Trust—Travellers on credit.

A country editor, praising a successful politician, called him "one of the cleverest fellows that ever lifted a hat to a lady or a boot to a black-guard."

"I shall be at home next Sunday," the young lady remarked, as she followed to the door her beau, who seemed to be wavering in his attachment.

"I have that lives in 'Pity Row' is almost a certainty. He can fill a bill, split a hair, make an entry, get up a case, form an indictment, open a jury, put them in a box, nail a witness, hammer a judge, bore a court, and win any like thing."

"If you run over a youngster down here in this way," said a woman in Mobile, "she'll do you any thing, like they got more children than winter for 'em, but you just run over a goat or a kid on a side, and black is a much sickerer you in two minutes."

An ill-looking fellow was asked how he could account for his forming when he was eight. He said he had been in the neighborhood, but his nurse, to revenge herself upon his parents for some fancied injury of their hands, one day dropped an empty tin of snuff, containing in a friend of love, who was raised upon that spot.
